2017 is the 23rd year of the Society of Light and Lighting's prestigious Young Lighter of the Year competition and the fifth year that the winner will be presented at the LUX Awards. The competition acts as a forum to help promote the younger element in the lighting profession, providing a unique platform for young lighters, whether Society members or not, to research a specific lighting subject, to hone their presentation skills, and to win the considerable professional kudos of being chosen as the 'SLL Young Lighter of the Year'. Entries are open to all young lighters – whether actively working in the industry or studying, the Society wishes to encourage all to participate.
